We believe that pets are family and deserve the best care

Brisbane Veterinary Specialist Centre (BVSC) is a leading specialist veterinary hospital in Brisbane, Australia. We are growing and have an opportunity for an additional specialist surgeon to join our dynamic and skilful team. The position is suitable for candidates who have finished their residency and are board-eligible, as well as for experienced surgeons looking to join a supportive and collaborative team. For a locum position we would envisage a two- or three-month commitment to fit in with your availability.

Brisbane Veterinary Specialist Centre is a values-driven, purpose-built specialist veterinary hospital supported by an after-hours emergency and critical care service, all with a culture of providing speciality care with compassion. You would be joining an experienced, high performing, successful and collaborative team of committed veterinarians, technicians, nurses and administrative staff working in the fields of surgery, surgical oncology, radiation therapy, chemotherapy, internal medicine and ophthalmology as well as services in dentistry and physiotherapy to surround our patients with the best possible care. BVSC has strong relationships with the primary care veterinarians who chose to refer. Our case load is busy and varied. Our expert oncology team attracts cases from across Australasia and the entire hospital embraces innovation with a strong focus on fostering new ideas and ethical collaborative research with leading industry partners. We have an outstanding wellbeing program with Australia's leading EAP service, a visiting counsellor and many other health and wellness initiatives designed to enhance the work experience for the entire team.

Successful candidates will be eligible to practice as a Veterinarian in Queensland. Competitive remuneration and other industry-leading benefits including a relocation allowance are available to the successful candidate.
